Care for the Young Patient with a Complex Orthopaedic Problem: A Global Perspective

On May 1, 2013, at the POSNA Annual Meeting in Toronto, The Half-Day Pre-Course, co-sponsored by IFPOS, is entitled, “Care for the Young Patient with a Complex Orthopaedic Problem: A Global Perspective.” An international faculty will present lectures on early onset scoliosis, hip problems, upper extremity, lower extremity and gait, and lively panel discussions will review cases of trauma and spine deformity. Additionally, we will discuss aspects of the Children’s Orthopaedics in Underserved Regions (COUR) Program and health care delivery around the world. Please join us for what is sure to be a colorful and interactive program with noted experts from around the world.

Objectives and goals of the course:
At the end of the course, the registrant will:
1. Be familiar with current concepts of the growing spine and treatment alternatives for early onset scoliosis.
2. Ascertain the relative merits of in situ screw fixation or surgical dislocation of a high grade, acute slipped capital femoral epiphysis.
3. Understand some of the late reconstructive options for brachial plexus palsy.
4. Learn aspects of management of traumatic injuries to a child’s upper and lower extremity through case-based learning.
5. Be able to recommend options for hip reconstruction in cerebral palsy and lower extremity congenital deformities.
6. Have an understanding of international health care delivery.
